

How does it changes you?

Changes in feelings, lifestyle and thoughts

Changes in feelings

PPD brings emotional shifts, sadness, irritability, or disconnect from self and the baby

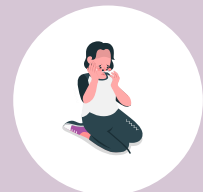

Intense sadness throughout day

Feeling of being guilty

Feeling failed or shamefulness

Panicked or afraid of something

Changes in daily life

PPD can disrupt your daily life, sleep and eating habits. Nutrition and selfcare often suffer

Losing interest in normal things

Losing or gaining too much weight

Eating too less or too much

Lack of or No concentration

Tiredness

Troubled sleep

Changes in thoughts

In PPD thoughts become clouded with guilt, fear and self-doubt

Trouble in bonding with baby

Thinking or trying to hurt baby

Thinking of hurting yourself

Thoughts of suicide

The symptoms may get worse if the baby has a birth defect or is put under observation in neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) due to other reasons.